

Debate

Jess Park – tennis coach

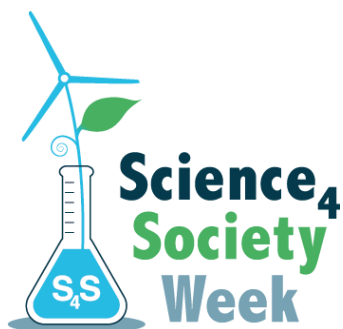

New technology is being developed some fast that I want to keep upgrading my phone and have the best model available. I want to have the things that my friends have – sometimes before they do! I don't see why we should have to pay more for that!

Fact: Mobile technology is also changing economic life in parts of Africa (where people can use their phones to make or receive payments) and many people in other countries use their phones to get political, consumer and health information.

Issue: If we all have to pay more for our phones because of this tax – then only wealthy people could afford them.

Question: Why should we deny everyone the benefits of having their own mobile phone? They shouldn't just be for the rich!

I'm a
Scientist
Get me OUT of here